

Spring Forward: A Clear Path for Your Child's Success

Your child's grades, state test results, and your school's report card give you the bigger picture of your child's progress.

Visit belearninghero.org to get your state's practice test, plus tips and tools to support learning at home.

How can you help your child get ahead?

Take your state's practice test.

Along with grades and class work, the state test is another way to see where your child needs more support. Test nerves are real but you can boost self-confidence by showing your child how to take on challenges.

Look at your practice test together >>

Stay connected with the teacher.

Teachers say the best way to know how your child is progressing is to be in regular contact. Ask the teacher how your child is doing with specific skills and share what you notice at home about their learning habits.

See questions to ask the teacher >>

Check out how your school is doing.

Your state releases a report card for every school, which includes important information about your school's performance such as academics, the learning environment, and more.

Get your school's report card here >>

Have fun learning on the go!

The new Readiness Check is more like a game but shows your child's progress with math and reading. It connects you to videos, activities, and more to support learning at home and on the go!

Get the Readiness Check >>